WORST MOMENT—WHEN SHIP DISAPPEARED

Cheering Crowd In England Hears Carlsen Tell Story

FALMOUTH, Eng., Jan. 11.—(AP)—Safe ashore, Capt. Kurt Carlsen told the story Friday of his monumental fight with the raging Atlantic — a two-week battle against wind, waves and cold.

He told a cheering crowd of thousands: "I deeply regret that I was not in position to bring the Enterprise back with me."

From the deck of the rescue tug Turmoil he watched the death throes of the 6,751-ton Flying Enterprise Thursday, minutes after he leaped into the water from the dying freighter. She went down in 40 fathoms—250 feet—of water, 37 miles off this fishing port, after a thrashing, titanic battle with the sea.

"That really hurt me, quite a lot," Carlsen said.

It was that "last gale" which struck the stout ship its death blow, the courageous, 37-year-old skipper told a news conference.

"The last few days' gale was too much," he said. "There were high seas going and they were too much."

His worst moment in the long ordeal, he said, "was the moment that the Flying Enterprise disappeared."

He obviously loved his ship. "I commanded that ship for three years and made 44 crossings of the Atlantic," he said.

"She was a very well built ship. She was an extremely solid ship."

He will go back to sea, he said. And it may be aboard another Flying Enterprise. The Isbrandtsen Line, owners of the ship, referring proudly to the heroic master, has announced he can have a new command whenever he wants it and that likely there will be a new Flying Enterprise for him one day.

Carlsen seemed calm as he described his ordeal, a solitary battle for a week after he ordered his crew of 40 and 10 passengers to abandon ship on Dec. 29, four days after the Christmas hurricane hit.

He managed to get four to six hours sleep a night, sleeping "half on the port wall and half on the floor" of the crazily tilted vessel.

It was a hungry affair for him for a while.

"I found down in the storeroom a big pound cake with a big hole in it, and I put my arm through it and brought it up," he said.

He lived on the pound cake and water for several days. Later he found some wine and beer aboard.

Still later, the U. S. Destroyer Willard Keith got hot coffee and food to him.

By night, he read by the light of a flickering candle. His book was "The Seaman and the Law."

Things brightened for him after a week of lonely battle, when the salvage tug Turmoil, coming close by, put aboard First Mate Kenneth Dancy, 27.

Friday, Dancy stood beside Carlsen on the platform and kept his arm around the little skipper.

"I must express my great admiration for Capt. Carlsen," Dancy told the crowd.

The cargo in the lost vessel's five hatches included 1,271 tons of pig iron, several tons of U. S. mail from Germany, 890 tons of African coffee, 55 tons of graphite, 82 tons of bone meal, some furniture and barrels of aluminum chloride, some steel vials loaded with carpets, 800 bales of peat moss, 65 bird cages, five tons of Columbite ore, 25 barrels of onions and cucumbers in brine, 260 bags of grass seed, a number of bales of animal hair from India, and a number of bales of jute bagging.

A DEMOCRAT AT AGE 18?

GOP Senator Says Ike Should Doff Uniform

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Senator Aiken (R-Vt.) believes that if General Eisenhower wants to be President he should ask to be relieved of his present job, doff his uniform and make his views on domestic issues known.

"He should come out swinging and not be so coy," Aiken said.

Aiken's comments attracted attention here because he long has battled what he calls "the old guard" in the Republican Party.

Aiken's proposal compared with President Truman's statement Thursday that he will keep Eisenhower as commander of Allied forces in Europe as long as the general wants to stay there.

Mr. Truman, after repeating his previous praise of Eisenhower, said the general would have to resign if he wins the Republican nomination.

"I think he better resign if he wants to win the nomination," Aiken said. "He would greatly strengthen himself as a candidate if he lets voters know where he stands."

entitled to know Ike's views."

"He certainly can't differ too much with the administration foreign policies because he's been carrying out part of them," Aiken said, adding:

"I want to know, for instance, where he stands on the St. Lawrence Seaway. I also wonder about his views on labor, health, education and farm programs."

"We don't want a President as coy as he's being as a candidate," Aiken added.

Mr. Truman's comment Thursday that he had seen told last August the general was a Democrat has received quick verification in Kansas.

The President, indicating the announcement Eisenhower is a Republican came as news to him, said a brother of a former Kansas governor told him the general was a Democratic precinct worker at the age of 18.

In Olathe, Kas., Frank Hodges, brother of the late Gov. George H. Hodges, said Eisenhower made a speech at a young men's Democratic club banquet in Abilene, Kas. Hodges said he told Mr. Truman about it in a letter.

Ohio's Shale Bearing Oil

Potential Reserve Seen For Future

COLUMBUS, Jan. 11.—(AP)—When you think of oil, the states of Texas, Oklahoma and Pennsylvania come to mind—but never Ohio.

But things may change in the next 20 years or so. That possibility was brought out by John H. Melvin, chief of the geological survey division of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources.

Ohio's potential oil reserve is in the form of oil-bearing shales and low grade coal found in about one-fourth of the state, he says.

Right now it costs too much to convert shale and coal into oil to compete with regular oil, but geologists estimate this nation will have passed its petroleum production peak by 1975. By the year 2,000, shale and coal may be producing most of the nation's domestic supply.

The shale belt is estimated to be about 20 feet wide. It begins in Ross County, passes through Pickaway and Franklin Counties, follows the west border of eastern Ohio coal fields and swings northward to Lake Erie.

Tot Dies In Sleep After Last Party

ANTIOCH, Calif., Jan. 11.—(AP)—Dixie Kline died in her sleep two days after her sixth birthday party at which was served the watermelon she so passionately desired.

The tiny leukemia victim awoke Thursday, remembering her party. Her voice could hardly be heard as she asked if she might have some more watermelon. But she was too weak to take more than a few drops of liquid.

Then she fell asleep again. This time she did not awaken.

He Just Lacked Some Weapons

SALIDA, Colo., Jan. 11.—(AP)—A larger Boxer dog was tried and found innocent here Thursday of murdering a Pekinese. Police Magistrate R. J. Murray found the boxer innocent of the charges.

Mrs. Marjorie Tracy signed a complaint against the Boxer named Till. She claimed her Pekinese was engaged in a fight back of the Tracy home by Till and an unidentified Shepherd dog.

Don Myers, Salida attorney, defended Till and showed the court that Till had no fangs and badly rotted teeth.

Till was tried under an old city ordinance that said all dogs caught fighting must be put to death.

Gunwoman Steals Minnesota Baby

Blonde Admits Grabbing Tot To Replace One She Had 'Lost'

NEW ULM, Minn., Jan. 11.—(AP)—Chief of Police Edward L. Larson said Friday a New Ulm woman has confessed kidnapping an 18-day-old baby in Mankato Thursday.

She said she took it to replace a baby she "lost" through miscarriage.

Larson identified the woman as Mrs. Leonard Scheid, who is in her middle 30s. She has no other children and lives in a second floor apartment over a tavern in downtown New Ulm.

The baby—son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Callahan—is "OK" and is being cared for by a police matron in the New Ulm police station," the chief said.

On a tip, the chief went to an apartment Friday morning where the baby was reported held.

Mrs. Callahan, 35, and the mother of six children, told Mankato police Thursday a stranger posing as a pregnant woman seeking advice on child birth appeared at her door. She arrived shortly after the four other Callahan children had left for school and was invited in.

Stanley W. Christ, Mankato police chief, said Mrs. Callahan told this story:

She chatted a few minutes with the visitor in the Callahan living room. Then the baby began to fuss.

Mrs. Callahan went to the kitchen to prepare a bottle. While thus engaged she heard a shot.

Racing into the bedroom, the housewife was confronted with a pistol the woman held. Mrs. Callahan and her four-year-old son were forced into a closet. The intruder barred the door by placing a chair against the knob.

Twenty minutes later, when Mrs. Callahan worked herself free, the blonde and the baby were gone.

Ultimatum Given Reds

Contradictions Draw Allied Fire

MUNSAN, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Allied truce negotiators handed the Reds a virtual ultimatum Friday. They demanded an explanation of an alleged contradiction in the Communists' announced stand on construction of airfields during an armistice.

Maj. Gen. Howard M. Turner said negotiations for supervising a Korean truce could not continue until the Reds explain the apparent discrepancy.

Turner said the Reds last month announced they planned to build and repair airfields while a truce was in force, but denied Thursday this is their intention.

Chinese Maj. Gen. Hsieh Fang insisted the Communist position never has changed and declared: "You will never get a satisfactory answer to your unreasonable demands."

The truce subcommittee met for only 34 minutes. The subcommittee on prisoner exchange adjourned after four hours and 20 minutes.

BOTH WILL MEET again at 9 p. m., EST., Friday, in Panmunjom.

Rear Adm. R. E. Libby told newsmen that in the prisoner subcommittee "we are still trying to get them to explain their sudden shift on the doctrine of free choice—how they justify it and then repudiate it."

Thursday Libby accused the Communists of insisting on forced repatriation of war prisoners after the Reds said thousands of South Koreans had joined the Red armies of their own free will following capture.

Apology Given 2 Girls Fired As Bad Risks

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—(AP)—The Army apologized Friday to two government girls fired as security risks four years ago and offered to return them to their old jobs and pay them any money they lost as a result of the dismissals.

Said Eleanor Deak, 26, of Jermy, Pa.: "It is regrettable that four long, heart-sick years for me and my family have had to pass before my good name could be cleared."

Grace Patton, 35, of Charlotte, N. C., said "it's been a long fight, but we made it. I'm awfully happy the case is all over."

Miss Deak added:

"The police state can happen here unless the people, their representatives and the courts are ever alert to the dangers inherent in the granting of the summary discharge power to civil administrators."

The two were dismissed from the Army Finance Center in St. Louis in March, 1948.

Men, Her Kiss Can Be Irritating

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—(AP)—Believe it or not, men, a kiss can be irritating.

A congressional investigating committee discovered this while looking into the use of chemicals in cosmetics.

Dr. Marion B. Sulzberger, a dermatologist, told the committee that a man may incur skin irritation by kissing a woman if he is allergic to ingredients in her lipstick.

A 'MOST NOVEL PRECEDENT'

U.S. Answers Claims Made By Rep. Brehm

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—(AP)—The government contends it did not have to prove that a woman clerk intended to contribute to the campaign fund of Rep. Walter Brehm (R-Ohio) to establish his guilt on charges that he illegally took political gifts from her.

The government said this in a brief it filed with the U. S. Court of Appeals Friday.

It asked the court to uphold Brehm's conviction by a district court jury last spring on charges that he unlawfully accepted $1,000 in campaign gifts from Mrs. Emma S. Craven in 1948, while she worked in his congressional office. He was fined $5,000 and given a five to 15 months jail sentence.

The veteran 59-year-old Ohio congressman has asked the court to throw out his conviction on grounds that Federal Judge Burnita S. Matthews committed errors in handling the two-week trial.

The government argued that whether Mrs. Craven, a government employee, intended to give to the Republican Party campaign fund or to Brehm's own reelection campaign was not significant.

Judge Matthews should have given instructions that before there could be a guilty verdict, "the jury must find that the giver and receiver knew and understood that the contributions were made for" the Brehm campaign.

The government countered that the guilt of a person "is not dependent upon the actions or intentions of another, nor upon any mutual understanding."

It contended that such instructions to the jury would mean substitution of the law of conspiracy for proof of commission of actual crimes. This, the government said, would be a "most novel and highly dangerous precedent."

BREHM ARGUED that Judge Matthews should have excluded evidence of contributions allegedly received by him from Mrs. Clara Soladay, another clerk, before the dates mentioned in the indictment.

But the government replied that to prove a "scheme or plan" on the part of Brehm, the district court properly admitted evidence of its "inception and development."

Brehm was acquitted on two counts of receiving unlawful campaign gifts from Mrs. Soladay.

Arguments before the court on the Brehm appeal may come about mid-February.

PUCO Sets Up Stiff Rulings For Truckers

COLUMBUS, Jan. 11.—(AP)—The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio has announced six rules intended to stop truck overloading and "wildcat" trucking.

One rule outlaws truckers charging by tonnage or percentage of revenue.

Commission Chairman Robert L. Moulton said that would remove "all incentive on the part of the owner to overload his truck. Henceforth, payment will be only on a flat rate basis, by mileage, or on a time basis."

Another rule requires all trucks to carry liability insurance at all times. The old law required insurance only while the trucks were leased to a carrier.

The insurance rule accomplishes the same purpose, Moulton said, as the proposal to allow leases for a minimum of 30 days.

Moulton said the insurance rule would meet complaints against "so-called wildcat truckers who may be here today and gone tomorrow."

Other new rules:

Carriers must have written contracts as evidence of truck leases, and must keep them for two years and file a copy with the utilities commission, except in emergencies.

The carrier is given control over the driver.

Sub-leasing and leasing to non-carriers is prohibited.

Carriers must inspect all trucks for safety equipment.

Sea-Air Hunt Widening For Pacific Ship

SEATTLE, Jan. 11.—(AP)—A widening sea-air search for the freighter Pennsylvania and the 45 men who abandoned her wallowing hulk Wednesday was underway Friday over a large North Pacific area.

Three ships continued to comb the area and seven airplanes were alerted to participate in the second day of searching the windy, surging ocean spot where the men last were heard from.

Canadian and U. S. ships and planes Thursday conducted a day-long criss-cross search of the region 465 miles northwest of Vancouver Island where the broken and water-logged freighter last reported being in difficulty.

They found nothing. Not even a scrap of wreckage, a drifting bit of clothing or a life preserver. Just wind and waves and snow flurries.

12 Nations Ordered To Seek Accord

A-Weapon Curbs Due To Be Climax Of Arms Reduction

PARIS, Jan. 11.—(AP)—The United Nations General Assembly voted 42 to 5 Friday to set up a 12-nation Disarmament Commission.

The body will study step-by-step reductions in arms and armed forces, climaxing at some future date with prohibition of atomic weapons.

The Western Big Three powers—the U. S., Britain and France—sponsored the measure, the major achievement of the sixth UN General Assembly here.

Four weeks of debate in the assembly's political committee—including private Big Four talks with Russia and Assembly President Luis Padilla Nervo for one week in an attempt to reach understanding—preceded Friday's decision.

AT THE OUTSET of the session, Russia withdrew amendments it had previously attempted in vain to get adopted in the political committee which would have demanded immediate prohibition of atomic weapons.

The assembly voted down Czechoslovak attempts to emasculate the Western power resolution, especially on the step-by-step procedures. Avoidance of a fight over the Russian proposals speeded up the assembly action.

The proposal calls for the 11 nations making up the Security Council plus Canada to study all disarmament proposals beginning within 30 days and to submit its first report by June, 1952.

Curses On Him Who Invented Men's Pajamas!

LONDON, Jan. 11.—(AP)—The trade journal "Tailor and Cutter" denounced pajamas as "vicious" Friday and came out four-square for the old-fashioned night shirt.

Recalling the quotation from Cervantes, "blessings on him who invented sleep," the journal said in a testy editorial:

"Curses on him who invented pajamas."

The editorial especially deplored the tendency of pajama sleeves and trouser legs to creep upward in the chilly night. It said this "invariably produces the necessity for adjustment which eventually grows into a wakeful and irritable tugging, and before one knows it, vexation hath murdered sleep."

"Whilst night is knitting up the raveled sleeve of care," the editorial complained, "we are struggling dreamily to pull ours down."

Nightshirts are roomy, at least, said the journal (sometimes known as the Bible of Savile Row) and "we are quite willing to touch them with our wand of sponsorship."

For gents who have trouble keeping their night shirts in place it suggested a simple curative: Put your garters on upside down and connect the fasteners with the hem.

Gun To Handle Atom Artillery Shell Displayed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—(AP)—The military Friday showed to the Senate - House Atomic Committee a model of an artillery gun designed to handle atomic shells.

The model was enclosed in a concealing wooden box when carried into and from a closed-door session of the committee.

Chairman McMahon (D - Conn) declined comment when reporters asked him whether the model was that of a gun already actually constructed or was made from the blueprint of a gun still to be built.

McMahon said the committee members looked at the model and discussed it. He declined to say more, except that the model had been brought to the committee session by an ordinance officer.

It was the first time, he added, that such a model had been shown to the committee.

Demobilization Said Dangerous

COLUMBUS, Jan. 11.—(P)—An Air Force general Thursday night warned against the United States demobilizing quickly after the Korean war, like it did after World War II.

"After World War II we did in six months what the Japanese, German and Italian armies couldn't do in four years—we destroyed our armed forces," said Brig. Gen. A. Robert Ginsburgh, special assistant to Secretary of Defense Lovett.

He said the pressure is now on Washington to bring home the men from Korea.

Ohio's Shale Bearing Oil

Potential Reserve Seen For Future

COLUMBUS, Jan. 11.—(P)—When you think of oil, the states of Texas, Oklahoma and Pennsylvania come to mind—but never Ohio.

But things may change in the next 20 years or so. That possibility was brought out by John H. Melvin, chief of the geological survey division of the Ohio Department of Natural Resources.

Ohio's potential oil reserve is in the form of oil-bearing shales and low grade coal found in about one-fourth of the state, he says.

Right now it costs too much to convert shale and coal into oil to compete with regular oil, but geologists estimate this nation will have passed its petroleum production peak by 1975. By the year 2,000, shale and coal may be producing most of the nation's domestic supply.

The shale belt is estimated to be about 20 feet wide. It begins in Ross County, passes through Pickaway and Franklin Counties, follows the west border of eastern Ohio coal fields and swings northward to Lake Erie.

LOW GRADE coal is on the western edge of Ohio's soft coal fields.

The geological division and Ohio State University engineers are co-operating in an exhaustive study of how best to extract oil from shale and coal.

While no commercial company has decided to set up an extraction plant, Melvin says one may "in the not too distant future." Persons "very, very much interested" have made inquiries of the department.

Until just a few years ago, shale was thought to be without value. Then oil - extraction experiments were made in the west.

Oil-bearing shales found in Colorado have a much higher oil content than those found in Ohio.

But Ohio could beat Colorado to the punch in extracting oil from shale. That is because Ohio is closer to markets and has a better supply of water needed in the processes.

Ohio shale today can yield seven or eight gallons of oil per ton of rock. Low grade coal has a much higher oil content. Improvements in extraction and refinement methods could raise the yield, Melvin says.

He Just Lacked Some Weapons

SALIDA, Colo., Jan. 11.—(P)—A larger Boxer dog was tried and found innocent here Thursday of murdering a Pekinese. Police Magistrate R. J. Murray found the boxer innocent of the charges.

Mrs. Marjorie Tracy signed a complaint against the Boxer named Till. She claimed her Pekinese was engaged in a fight back of the Tracy home by Till and an unidentified Sheppard dog.

Don Myers, Salida attorney, defended Till and showed the court that Till had no fangs and badly rotted teeth.

Till was tried under an old city ordinance that said all dogs caught fighting must be put to death.

Gunwoman Steals Minnesota Baby

Blonde Admits Grabbing Tot To Replace One She Had 'Lost'

NEW ULM, Minn., Jan. 11.—(P)—Chief of Police Edward L. Larson said Friday a New Ulm woman has confessed kidnapping an 18-day-old baby in Mankato Thursday.

She said she took it to replace a baby she "lost" through miscarriage.

Larson identified the woman as Mrs. Leonard Scheid, who is in her middle 30s. She has no other children and lives in a second floor apartment over a tavern in downtown New Ulm.

The baby—son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Callahan—is "OK and is being cared for by a police matron in the New Ulm police station," the chief said.

On a tip, the chief went to an apartment Friday morning where the baby was reported held.

Mrs. Callahan, 35, and the mother of six children, told Mankato police Thursday a stranger posing as a pregnant woman seeking advice on child birth appeared at her door. She arrived shortly after the four other Callahan children had left for school and was invited in.

Stanley W. Christ, Mankato police chief, said Mrs. Callahan told this story:

She chatted a few minutes with the visitor in the Callahan living room. Then the baby began to fuss.

Mrs. Callahan went to the kitchen to prepare a bottle. While thus engaged she heard a shot.

Racing into the bedroom, the housewife was confronted with a pistol the woman held. Mrs. Callahan and her four-year-old son were forced into a closet. The intruder barred the door by placing a chair against the knob.

Twenty minutes later, when Mrs. Callahan worked herself free, the blonde and the baby were gone.

Ultimatum Given Reds

Contradictions Draw Allied Fire

MUNSAN, Jan. 11.—(P)—Allied truce negotiators handed the Reds a virtual ultimatum Friday. They demanded an explanation of an alleged contradiction in the Communists' announced stand on construction of airfields during an armistice.

Maj. Gen. Howard M. Turner said negotiations for supervising a Korean truce could not continue until the Reds explain the apparent discrepancy.

Turner said the Reds last month announced they planned to build and repair airfields while a truce was in force, but denied Thursday this was their intention.

Chinese Maj. Gen. Hsieh Fang insisted the Communist position never has changed and declared: "You will never get a satisfactory answer to your unreasonable demands."

The truce subcommittee met for only 34 minutes. The subcommittee on prisoner exchange adjourned after four hours and 20 minutes.

BOTH WILL MEET again at 9 p. m., EST., Friday, in Panmunjom.

Rear Adm. R. E. Libby told newsmen that in the prisoner subcommittee "we are still trying to get them to explain their sudden shift on the doctrine of free choice—how they justify it and then repudiate it."

Thursday Libby accused the Communists of insisting on forced repatriation of war prisoners after the Reds said thousands of South Koreans had joined the Red armies of their own free will following capture.

The veteran 59-year-old Ohio congressman has asked the court to throw out his conviction on grounds that Federal Judge Burnita S. Matthews committed errors in handling the two-week trial.

The government argued that whether Mrs. Craven, a government employee, intended to give to the Republican Party campaign fund or to Brehm's own reelection campaign was not significant.

THE FACT remains that (Brehm), as a congressman, did receive money from her for the political purpose of assisting him in financing his campaign for reelection through a scheme or plan whereby part of her salary would be given to him.

It is a crime for a member of Congress to accept campaign contributions from government employees.

Brehm's brief claimed Judge Matthews should have directed his acquittal "upon the government's failure to establish" that the contributions were to help finance the Brehm campaign itself.

Miss Deak added: "The police state can happen here unless the people, their representatives and the courts are ever alert to the dangers inherent in the granting of the summary discharge power to civil administrators."

Men, Her Kiss Can Be Irritating

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—(P)—Believe it or not, men, a kiss can be irritating.

A congressional investigating committee discovered this while looking into the use of chemicals in cosmetics.

Dr. Marion B. Sulzberger, a dermatologist, told the committee that a man may incur skin irritation by kissing a woman if he is allergic to ingredients in her lipstick.

A 'MOST NOVEL PRECEDENT'

U.S. Answers Claims Made By Rep. Brehm

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—(P)—The government contends it did not have to prove that a woman clerk intended to contribute to the campaign fund of Rep. Walter Brehm (R-Ohio) to establish his guilt on charges that he illegally took political gifts from her.

The government said this in a brief it filed with the U. S. Court of Appeals Friday.

It asked the court to uphold Brehm's conviction by a district court jury last spring on charges that he unlawfully accepted $1,000 in campaign gifts from Mrs. Emma S. Craven in 1948, while she worked in his congressional office. He was fined $5,000 and given a five to 15 months jail sentence.

The veteran 59-year-old Ohio congressman has asked the court to throw out his conviction on grounds that Federal Judge Burnita S. Matthews committed errors in handling the two-week trial.

The government argued that whether Mrs. Craven, a government employee, intended to give to the Republican Party campaign fund or to Brehm's own reelection campaign was not significant.

THE FACT remains that (Brehm), as a congressman, did receive money from her for the political purpose of assisting him in financing his campaign for reelection through a scheme or plan whereby part of her salary would be given to him.

It is a crime for a member of Congress to accept campaign contributions from government employees.

Brehm's brief claimed Judge Matthews should have directed his acquittal "upon the government's failure to establish" that the contributions were to help finance the Brehm campaign itself.

Brehm also contended that

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—(P)—The Army apologized Friday to two government girls it fired as security risks four years ago and offered to return them to their old jobs and pay them any money they lost as a result of the dismissals.

Sea-Air Hunt Widening For Pacific Ship

SEATTLE, Jan. 11.—(P)—A widening sea-air search for the freighter Pennsylvania and the 45 men who abandoned her wallowing hulk Wednesday was underway Friday over a large North Pacific area.

Three ships continued to comb the area and seven airplanes were alerted to participate in the second day of searching the windy, surging ocean spot where the men last were heard from.

Canadian and U. S. ships and planes Thursday conducted a day-long criss-cross search of the region 465 miles northwest of Vancouver Island where the broken and water-logged freighter last reported being in difficulty.

They found nothing. Not even a scrap of wreckage, a drifting bit of clothing or a life preserver. Just wind and waves and snow flurries.

Judge Matthews should have given instructions that before there could be a guilty verdict, "the jury must find that the giver and receiver knew and understood that the contributions were made for" the Brehm campaign.

The government countered that the guilt of a person "is not dependent upon the actions or intentions of another, nor upon any mutual understanding."

It contended that such instructions to the jury would mean substitution of the law of conspiracy for proof of commission of actual crimes. This, the government said, would be a "most novel and highly dangerous precedent."

BREHM ARGUED that Judge Matthews should have excluded evidence of contributions allegedly received by him from Mrs. Clara Soladay, another clerk, before the dates mentioned in the indictment.

But the government replied that to prove a "scheme or plan" on the part of Brehm, the district court properly admitted evidence of its "inception and development."

Brehm was acquitted on two counts of receiving unlawful campaign gifts from Mrs. Soladay.

Arguments before the court on the Brehm appeal may come about mid-February.

PUCO Sets Up Stiff Rulings For Truckers

COLUMBUS, Jan. 11.—(P)—The Public Utilities Commission of Ohio has announced six rules intended to stop truck overloading and "wildcat" trucking.

One rule outlaws truckers charging by tonnage or percentage of revenue.

Commission Chairman Robert L. Moulton said that would remove "all incentive on the part of the owner to overload his truck. Henceforth, payment will be only on a flat rate basis, by mileage, or on a time basis."

Another rule requires all trucks to carry liability insurance at all times. The old law required insurance only while the trucks were leased to a carrier.

The insurance rule accomplishes the same purpose, Moulton said, as the proposal to allow leases for a minimum of 30 days.

Moulton said the insurance rule would meet complaints against "so-called wildcat truckers who may be here today and gone tomorrow."

Other new rules: Carriers must have written contracts as evidence of truck leases, and must keep them for two years and file a copy with the utilities commission, except in emergencies. The carrier is given control over the driver.

Sub-leasing and leasing to non-carriers is prohibited. Carriers must inspect all trucks for safety equipment.

12 Nations Ordered To Seek Accord

A-Weapon Curbs Due To Be Climax Of Arms Reduction

PARIS, Jan. 11.—(P)—The United Nations General Assembly voted 42 to 5 Friday to set up a 12-nation Disarmament Commission.

The body will study step-by-step reductions in arms and armed forces, climaxing at some future date with prohibition of atomic weapons.

The Western Big Three powers—the U. S., Britain and France—sponsored the measure, the major achievement of the sixth UN General Assembly here.

Four weeks of debate in the assembly's political committee—including private Big Four talks with Russia and Assembly President Luis Padilla Nervo for one week in an attempt to reach understanding—preceded Friday's decision.

AT THE OUTSET of the session, Russia withdrew amendments it had previously attempted in vain to get adopted in the political committee which would have demanded immediate prohibition of atomic weapons.

The assembly voted down Czechoslovak attempts to emasculate the Western power resolution, especially on the step-by-step procedures. Avoidance of a fight over the Russian proposals speeded up the assembly session.

The proposal calls for the 11 nations making up the Security Council plus Canada to study all disarmament proposals beginning within 30 days and to submit its first report by June, 1952.

Curses On Him Who Invented Men's Pajamas!

LONDON, Jan. 11.—(P)—The trade journal "Tailor and Cutter" denounced pajamas as "vicious" Friday and came out four-square for the old-fashioned night shirt.

Recalling the quotation from Cervantes, "blessings on him who invented sleep," the journal said in a testy editorial:

"Curses on him who invented pajamas."

The editorial especially deplored the tendency of pajama sleeves and trouser legs to creep upward in the chilly night. It said this "invariably produces the necessity for adjustment which eventually grows into a wakeful and irritable tugging, and before one knows it, vexation hath murdered sleep."

"Whilst night is knitting up the raveled sleeve of care," the editorial complained, "we are struggling dreamily to pull ours down."

Nightshirts are roomy, at least, said the journal (sometimes known as the Bible of Savile Row) and "we are quite willing to touch them with our wand of sponsorship."

For gents who have trouble keeping their night shirts in place it suggested a simple curative: Put your garters on upside down and connect the fasteners with the hem.

Gun To Handle Atom Artillery Shell Displayed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11.—(P)—The military Friday showed to the Senate - House Atomic Committee a model of an artillery gun designed to handle atomic shells.

The model was enclosed in a concealing wooden box when carried into and from a closed-door session of the committee.

Chairman McMahon (D - Conn.) declined comment when reporters asked him whether the model was that of a gun already actually constructed or was made from the blueprint of a gun still to be built.

McMahon said the committee members looked at the model and discussed it. He declined to say more, except that the model had been brought to the committee session by an ordnance officer.

It was the first time, he added, that such a model had been shown to the committee.

SITUATION 'HAZARDOUS'

Lowery Lane Blaze Probed; Remedial Measures Asked

Investigation into the cause of the fire Thursday which leveled two homes in Lowery lane and remedial measures aimed to prevent another such tragedy were being made Friday morning by city officials.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise, Mayor Ed Amey and Officer Robert Temple, representing the Circleville police department, Friday visited the Lowery lane section in an effort to solve the fire hazard problem.

Two families were left homeless and without household possessions when a fire destroyed their homes at 11 a. m. Thursday.

Chief Wise said Friday that residents of the area have been instructed to clean up the hazardous situation, in order to prevent another tragedy.

Wise said that electric wiring in some forty houses in the area was checked, along with chimneys and flues.

Mayor Amey said that property

owners will be notified in writing to "remedy the situation or suffer the consequences."

Meanwhile, appeal for clothing for the fire victims was continued Friday, as some contributions were reported received.

Amey said that some clothing and 40 cans of fruit had already been contributed.

Additional clothing and household articles and furniture is still needed by the families, he said.

CONTRIBUTIONS can be brought to the mayor's office, city building or the fire department.

The families of Garner Alderman and Ray Hashman were victims in the fire.

The eight children in the Alderman family and five in the Hashman family are presently staying with relatives.

Both families lost all their household possessions and most of their clothing in the blaze.

Father Shuns Honor Medal For His Son

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 — (AP)—A Washington father Friday refused to accept the Medal of Honor awarded his son for gallantry in Korea because, he claimed, President Truman is not "worthy to confer" it.

It was the first time in history that anyone has turned down the nation's highest military award.

The father is Halsey McGovern, a traffic consultant to the Interstate Commerce Commission. He also rejected the Silver Star, which was bestowed on another of his sons.

Both were killed in action in Korea.

The Medal of Honor was awarded to 1st Lt. Robert M. McGovern, 23, of the 1st Cavalry Division and the Silver Star to his brother, 2nd Lt. Jerome F. McGovern, 21, of the 2nd Division.

Robert was killed Jan. 30 and his brother fell in battle 12 days later. Both were buried in Arlington National Cemetery Nov. 15.

McGovern was quoted by the Washington Times-Herald as saying:

"Accepting these medals would imply that I think Truman is worthy to confer those honors. And I don't think that fellow is worthy to confer honors on my boys, or anyone's boys."

Mayor To Face Assault Hearing

BEAUMONT, Calif., Jan. 11 — (AP)—Mayor G. P. Hamilton was ordered to appear for arraignment Monday for assault of a newspaper reporter.

Reporter James Jaeger and the mayor clashed Thursday in front of the Beaumont Gazette building, where Jaeger is employed. The reporter accused the mayor and other members of the City Council of demanding he withhold news about the resignation of Robert Bruce as chairman of the City Recreation Commission.

Hamilton explained he and the councilmen had objected to the manner in which the story of Bruce's resignation was written.

Drunk Driver Campaign Due In Hillsboro

Pickaway County's firm stand against drunken drivers has been made the model for a similar program in Highland County.

Darrell R. Hottle, prosecuting attorney, sent a letter to mayors, police and justices of the peace throughout the county, as well as to State Highway Patrol stations at Wilmington and Chillicothe, in which he said he would place misdemeanor cases before the court.

He said Judge George W. McDowell had assured him that the court would cooperate in suspending the motorists' permits.

The letter read in part: "Because of the menace of the drinking driver to the safety and lives of those using the highways, both motorists and pedestrians, I call your attention to the use of the information by the prosecuting attorney to present a misdemeanor case before the common pleas court."

A similar procedure has been followed in Pickaway County for two years. Circleville officials report a sharp decline in drunken driving cases as a result.

However, Circleville's new mayor, Edward Amey, has indicated he does not think too much of the program, saying that the common pleas court penalty is "too severe."

Firemen Report Two Calls; Aid Heart Victim

Circleville firemen responded to two calls Thursday afternoon and night but damage was reported light. They also aided a heart attack victim.

At 5:40 p. m. firemen extinguished a small blaze in the Lowery lane area, caused by an overheated stove pipe.

The house was situated in a lot near the scene of another blaze Thursday morning which destroyed two residences and left two families homeless.

DAMAGE ESTIMATED at $50 was caused by another fire at 7:11 p. m. Thursday at the Container Corporation.

Chief Talmer Wise said a blaze started between a blanket and rolls on No. 4 machine in the plant.

Walter Crissinger of 404 North Scioto street, former Circleville merchant policeman, was given oxygen by firemen and later removed to Berger hospital, after he suffered an attack of illness in the fire house.

He was reported in "fair condition" Friday morning by hospital authorities.

Sabres Down 4 Red Jets In Korea Battles

SEOUL, Jan. 11 — (AP)—American F-86 Sabres shot down four Red jets in a series of air battles Thursday that ranged to within 39 miles of the Panmunjom site of truce negotiations.

This is far south of the usual range of jet battles.

One Russian-type Mig-15 was shot down over Sariwon, 150 miles south of the Yalu river border between Korea and Manchuria.

In another battle the Communist Migs engaged U. S. F-84 Thunderjets only 30 miles north of Panmunjom.

The four jets shot down Friday raised the total bagged by UN planes over Northwest Korea this week to 11. Twelve others were damaged.

Ground fronts were so quiet the heaviest reported action came from American naval guns. The Cruiser Rochester, supported by the Destroyers Collet and DeHaven, shelled Communist troop concentrations near Kosong on the eastern end of the snow-covered 145-mile battle line.

To the north, two other U. S. destroyers—the Gregory and the MacKenzie—fought an hour long duel with Red shore guns.

Baltimore Strike Running Strong

BALTIMORE, Jan. 11 — (AP)—Continuation of a transit strike into next week is being predicted, but the nation's sixth largest city experienced little of the paralysis expected from the walkout of 3,200 transit workers.

Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin, after separate meetings with company and union officials, said "We do not look for a settlement during the present weekend."

All street cars, trackless trolleys and buses stopped running at 4 a. m. Thursday when members of the AFL Transit Workers Union walked out in demand of a 24-cent hourly increase.

He was reported in "fair condition" Friday morning by hospital authorities.

Driver's Fine Reduced After Rehearing Case

Rehearing the case of Raymond Thorpe, 27, of Columbus, who was fined and sentenced Monday on two traffic violations brought a reduction in both fines and sentence in mayor's court.

After reexamination of the case, Thorpe was fined $10 and $6.50 in costs and sentenced to 12 days in county jail for failure to file application for an Ohio driver's license in 1951.

He was also fined $10 and $6.50 in costs on a speeding accusation.

Thorpe had previously been given a $500 fine by Mayor Ed Amey on the first accusation, and a $50 fine on the speeding count and sentenced to six months in county jail.

AMEY SAID Friday that request for rehearing was made by the state highway patrol.

State Highway Patrolman R. E. Brandon had arrested Thorpe Monday on U. S. 23, north of Circleville.

Amey said that reconsideration of evidence determined his decision to reduce the fines.

SITUATION 'HAZARDOUS'

Lowery Lane Blaze Probed; Remedial Measures Asked

Investigation into the cause of the fire Thursday which leveled two homes in Lowery lane and remedial measures aimed to prevent another such tragedy were held Friday morning by city officials.

Fire Chief Talmer Wise, Mayor Ed Amey and Officer Robert Temple, representing the Circleville police department, Friday visited the Lowery lane section in an effort to solve the fire hazard problem.

Two families were left homeless and without household possessions when a fire destroyed their homes at 11 a. m. Thursday.

Chief Wise said Friday that residents of the area have been instructed to clean up the hazardous situation, in order to prevent another tragedy.

WISE SAID that electric wiring in some forty houses in the area was checked, along with chimneys and flues.

Mayor Amey said that property

owners will be notified in writing to "remedy the situation or suffer the consequences."

Meanwhile, appeal for clothing for the fire victims was continued Friday, as some contributions were reported received.

Amey said that some clothing and 40 cans of fruit had already been contributed.

Additional clothing and household articles and furniture are still needed by the families, he said.

CONTRIBUTIONS can be brought to the mayor's office, city building or the fire department. The families of Garner Alderman and Ray Hashman were victims in the fire.

The eight children in the Alderman family and five in the Hashman family are presently staying with relatives.

Both families lost all their household possessions and most of their clothing in the blaze.

Father Shuns Honor Medal For His Son

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 — (P)—A Washington father Friday refused to accept the Medal of Honor awarded his son for gallantry in Korea because, he claimed, President Truman is not "worthy to confer" it.

It was the first time in history that anyone has turned down the nation's highest military award.

The father is Halsey McGovern, a traffic consultant to the Interstate Commerce Commission. He also rejected the Silver Star, which was bestowed on another of his sons.

Both were killed in action in Korea.

The Medal of Honor was awarded to 1st Lt. Robert M. McGovern, 23, of the 1st Cavalry Division and the Silver Star to his brother, 2nd Lt. Jerome F. McGovern, 21, of the 2nd Division.

Robert was killed Jan. 30 and his brother fell in battle 12 days later. Both were buried in Arlington National Cemetery Nov. 15.

McGovern was quoted by the Washington Times-Herald as saying:

"Accepting these medals would imply that I think Truman is worthy to confer those honors. And I don't think that fellow is worthy to confer honors on my boys, or anyone's boys."

Mayor To Face Assault Hearing

BEAUMONT, Calif., Jan. 11 — (P)—Mayor G. P. Hamilton was ordered to appear for arraignment Monday for assault of a newspaper reporter.

Reporter James Jaeger and the mayor clashed Thursday in front of the Beaumont Gazette building, where Jaeger is employed. The reporter accused the mayor and other members of the City Council of demanding he withhold news about the resignation of Robert Bruce as chairman of the City Recreation Commission.

Hamilton explained he and the councilmen had objected to the manner in which the story of Bruce's resignation was written.

Drunk Driver Campaign Due In Hillsboro

Pickaway County's firm stand against drunken drivers has been made the model for a similar program in Highland County.

Darrell R. Hottle, prosecuting attorney, sent a letter to mayors, police and justices of the peace throughout the county, as well as to State Highway Patrol stations at Wilmington and Chillicothe, in which he said he would place misdemeanor cases before the court.

He said Judge George W. McDowell had assured him that the court would cooperate in suspending the motorist's permits.

The letter read in part: "Because of the menace of the drinking driver to the safety and lives of those using the highways, both motorists and pedestrians, I call your attention to the use of the information by the prosecuting attorney to present a misdemeanor case before the common pleas court."

"Due to the fact that the common pleas court is the only court of record in Highland County, I extend you the cooperation of this office in bringing before the court those violators whom you feel should have their licenses revoked."

A similar procedure has been followed in Pickaway County for two years. Circleville officials report a sharp decline in drunken driving cases as a result.

However, Circleville's new mayor, Edward Amey, has indicated he does not think too much of the program, saying that the common pleas court penalty is "too severe."

Firemen Report Two Calls; Aid Heart Victim

Circleville firemen responded to two calls Thursday afternoon and night but damage was reported light. They also aided a heart attack victim.

At 5:40 p. m. firemen extinguished a small blaze in the Lowery lane area, caused by an overheated stove pipe.

The house was situated in a lot near the scene of another blaze Thursday morning which destroyed two residences and left two families homeless.

DAMAGE ESTIMATED at $50 was caused by another fire at 7:11 p. m. Thursday at the Container Corporation.

Chief Talmer Wise said a blaze started between a blanket and rolls on No. 4 machine in the plant.

Walter Crissinger of 401 North Scioto street, former Circleville merchant policeman, was given oxygen by firemen and later removed to Berger hospital, after he suffered an attack of illness in the fire house.

He was reported in "fair condition" Friday morning by hospital authorities.

Sabres Down 4 Red Jets In Korea Battles

SEOUL, Jan. 11 — (P)—American F-86 Sabrejets shot down four Red jets in a series of air battles Thursday that ranged to within 39 miles of the Panmunjom site of truce negotiations.

This is far south of the usual range of jet battles.

One Russian - type Mig-15 was shot down over Sariwon, 150 miles south of the Yalu river border between Korea and Manchuria.

In another battle the Communist Migs engaged U. S. F-84 Thunderjets only 30 miles north of Panmunjom.

The four jets shot down Friday raised the total bagged by UN planes over Northwest Korea this week to 11. Twelve others were damaged.

Ground fronts were so quiet the heaviest reported action came from American naval guns. The Cruiser Rochester, supported by the Destroyers Collett and DeHaven, shelled Communist troop concentrations near Kosong on the eastern end of the snow-covered 145-mile battle line.

To the north, two other U. S. destroyers—the Gregory and the MacKenzie—fought an hour long duel with Red shore guns.

Baltimore Strike Running Strong

BALTIMORE, Jan. 11 — (P)—Continuation of a transit strike into next week is being predicted, but the nation's sixth largest city experienced little of the paralysis expected from the walkout of 3,200 transit workers.

Gov. Theodore R. McKeldin, after separate meetings with company and union officials, said: "We do not look for a settlement during the present weekend."

All street cars, trackless trolleys and buses stopped running at 4 a. m. Thursday when members of the AFL Transit Workers Union walked out in demand of a 24-cent hourly increase.

McGrath Job Rapped Hard By Republicans

WASHINGTON, Jan. 11 — (P)—President Truman's assignment of Attorney General McGrath to clean up the government has drawn angry protest from Senate and House Republicans and silence from the Democrats.

The White House orders for the big cleanup stem, in part, from income tax scandals uncovered by a House investigation. A subcommittee headed by Rep. King (D-Calif.) has aired charges of corrupt deals and collusion involving high officials in McGrath's Justice Department and the Internal Revenue Bureau.

Mr. Truman said Thursday he had abandoned plans to create a special cleanup commission and had placed full responsibility on McGrath, as the chief law enforcement officer.

"That means there is going to be no cleanup," snapped Senator Capehart (R-Ind.).

Senator Nixon (R-Calif.) and Rep. Bakewell (R-Mo.) both renewed their demands that McGrath be fired. Nixon said Secretary of the Treasury Snyder "also must go."

The Internal Revenue Bureau is in Snyder's department.

The general will take charge of advance elements of the Ohio division which already have arrived at Camp Polk. The main body is due late this month.

Driver's Fine Reduced After Rehearing Case

Rehearing the case of Raymond Thorpe, 27, of Columbus, who was fined and sentenced Monday on two traffic violations brought a reduction in both fines and sentence in mayor's court.

After reexamination of the case, Thorpe was fined $10 and $6.50 in costs and sentenced to 12 days in county jail for failure to file application for an Ohio driver's license in 1951.

He was also fined $10 and $6.50 in costs on a speeding accusation. Thorpe had previously been given a $500 fine by Mayor Ed Amey on the first accusation, and a $50 fine on the speeding count and sentenced to six months in county jail.

AMEY SAID Friday that request for rehearing was made by the state highway patrol.

State Highway Patrolman R. E. Brandon had arrested Thorpe Monday on U.S. 23, north of Circleville. Amey said that reconsideration of evidence determined his decision to reduce the fines.

"Just imagine me eating all my favorite foods with never a sign of acid indigestion, heartburn or gas," says Auntie May. "If Cousin Harry hadn't given me some Tums that time I visited him and had that bad case of sour stomach, I wouldn't believe anything could work so fast." Tums do work in record time. No mixing, no waiting—no soda to cause acid rebound. Remember, keep Tums handy—eat like candy. See if you don't have lots more fun eating favorite foods and enjoying life.

BETTER U.S. DIET

SINCE THE YEARS preceding World War II, there seems to be no doubt, Americans on the average have enjoyed a better and more wholesome diet. This is credited primarily to a series of financial booms that even with rising prices found the wage earner able to pick and choose.

It also, Dr. Karl Brandt, agricultural economist of Stanford University Food Research Institute, told a joint session of the American Economic association and the American Farm Economic association, is due to improved nutritional standards. They, he said, were brought about by a technological revolution in agriculture.

It is surprising to be told that Americans in the year just ended consumed an average of 248 pounds of meat and meat substitutes, which include pork, mutton, lamb, fish, eggs and cheese, or 23 per cent more than in 1939. Consumption of carbohydrate foods such as grain and potatoes has declined 10 per cent, and of fats three per cent.

In the 1950-51 period, Dr. Brandt asserted, the grain fed to animals was 13 times that consumed by human beings in various forms.

Will beef prices come down? That is the question the average housewife is asking. Yes, says the Stanford food expert, but only through expanded slaughtering. But with high industrial production levels, food prices will continue to be relatively high.

Other experts hold that continued high incomes and high employment will make prices bearable, if livestock production continues to increase.

OUR SUPER-GOVERNMENT

CONTENDING that lump-sum appropriations, available to the President for any kind of emergency spending he desires, have concentrated so much power into the executive department that it now over-shadows both legislative and judicial departments, a writer for Human Events suggests that that department is now a super-government. The power isn't even in the hands of the President any more. The executive department is now in charge or "secret fluctuating cabals, each intent on enhancing its powers . . . Rendering service to country is not their concern." Perpetuating their power is the aim.

"The American presidency, with its invisible rulers, is now the omnipotent government," says this writer. "It can influence the selection of candidates of both parties, control the organization of almost every congressional district, drive its ablest critics from public office, subsidize and intimidate a large part of the public press—and hire a crew of experts in brain-washing to erase the vestiges of liberty in our minds." The conclusion is Congress will have to reassert its constitutional authority or we are lost.

That's a strong statement. If it's a true statement, then the "brain-washing" has already occurred because few Americans think their plight is so desperate. Should the Republicans be sold the idea that the Truman bureaucrats will dictate the Republican candidate for President this year, they'll start foaming at the mouth.

These Days

Harry Truman's good fortune in 1948 was due to the inadequacy of the Republican campaign against him. No matter whose decision it was to conduct a soft campaign, the American voter did not respond to it and Mr. Dewey went down to defeat. Many who criticized Mr. Dewey after the election favored the soft campaign before it failed.

Truman is now facing a sadly divided Republican party. It is no longer a question of the usual competition among political leaders for the nomination; it has become a wide cleavage involving bitter personal hatreds which will outlast the convention in 1952, as bitterness outlasted 1948. For instance, should the Willkieite Wall Streeters succeed in putting over General Eisenhower as they succeeded in achieving the Willkie nomination by blitz, an astounding number of Republicans will stay away from the polls. It is not that they dislike Eisenhower but that they hate the Wall Street political businessman who has been wrecking their party.

Most offensive to many Republicans has been the Eisenhower practice of shilly-shally. Their attitude is that if he wants the nomination, why not say so? Why not go after it? If he is too big to fight for the Presidency, he is too big to be President.

That is the issue for many Republicans, because they feel that the military man is often incapable of subordinating his personality to the give and take of civilian life, that he is too accustomed to command rather than to the compromises essential to the maintenance of a free society. They distrust the man who invariably speaks through others, and particularly through men who, in their own right, are of secondary significance. Most of all, they fear the invasion of their party, as in the time of Willkie, by disappointed New Dealers. At the moment, this fear is justified as so many of Franklin D. Roosevelt's entourage are not given house room by Harry Truman. Many of them are willing to be either Republicans or Democrats.

The anxiety of the Eisenhower group develops the suspicion that those who support his candidacy are more frightened at failure than he is. This is especially true of the Wall Street group, who are, for some reason not quite clear, more opposed to Robert A. Taft than to Harry Truman. They have made a fetish of Eisenhower, but they do him the injustice of forcing his hand.

The events over the past weekend were so unusual as to bring confusion into an already confused political party.

It all started when Harold Stassen flew to France, spent a couple of hours with Eisenhower, flew back to the United States and declared himself to be a candidate for the Presidency. As it is beyond probability that Harold Stassen could be nominated, practical politicians argued about the situation in this fashion:

1. Stassen is a stalking horse for Eisenhower;
2. Stassen believes that Eisenhower will not run and is placing himself in a bargaining position within the Republican party;
3. Stassen is building a position so that he can throw whatever delegates he gets to Eisenhower, while he accepts the Vice Presidency.

Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr. and Harold Stassen are also reputed to be hopeful that should General Eisenhower become President, the Secretaryship of State would be a desirable sign of gratitude.

Senator Lodge thereupon projected himself into the picture to offset Stassen by announcing the Eisenhower candidacy and giving the impression that he is authorized to speak. From Paris came some, but politically inadequate, confirmation.

Eisenhower's statement from Paris was awkward, inept, and for the politician altogether confusing. He still is not a pre-

CHAPTER NINETEEN

Barth drifted away from the back door, where he had been greeting everyone, and found an old armchair that had been pushed into a dark corner of the big kitchen of the Manse. He would leave things to Kent now. Let him take over. It was good to know that he could.

Donald was going to be popular, his thoughts went on. Already at school the boys and girls were speaking of him enthusiastically. "He's different from the rest of the teachers," they said. "He's interesting. He'll talk about other things besides the lesson. He'll talk about anything. But somehow when he gets through he's got it all tied up with what he's given you to study."

He had made no mistake, Barth told himself, asking Donald to lead the Youth Group.

His eyes strayed about the old kitchen. The folding chairs that had been brought over from the Sunday School were half filled. By the time the meeting opened, there wouldn't be a vacant seat. Discretion had been the better part of valor, after all, he told himself. At first, hearing Constance's account of the Sewing Circle affair, he had known an impatient indignation. They—he and a Constance—were certainly not trying to be a law unto themselves, he had exclaimed. There was a higher Law. And no one was going to tell him how he was to live up to that. Sam would speak, as he had been invited to speak. And he, Barth, would make the announcement to that effect from his pulpit regardless of all this tempest in a teapot. Because that's what it was and nothing more. The Peebles weren't happy unless they were stirring one up.

But quieter thought had told him that, though a counter act to the Tuesday squabble was needed, it should not be one of defiance. Defiance only lost sight of his lifelong objective. What he wanted, now as always, was to spread the gospel as far and wide as possible of the Brotherhood of Man and the Fatherhood of God. He wanted his church, where he was the ordained leader, to be an example of this, to be a small candle in a world of darkness. However, attitudes had to grow naturally in unaccustomed directions. They could not be forced. His own rule had always been: a liberal view but moderate action; and his motto: evolution, not revolution. He must bear that in mind.

Therefore, instead of announcing the speaker as Captain Sam Mopes, which he would have been immediately identified and a storm raised again, he had said only that the guest speaker would be a young veteran unknown to Crestwood whose experiences and travels would, he felt sure, interest all the young people. He hoped many would be present, and any of their friends outside of the church whom the members of the group cared to invite would be welcome.

The young were broader-minded than the old, he had said to himself. They had fewer prejudices. He knew from his own dealings with them that they were beginning to feel that the peace of the world rested on their shoulders as much as on the shoulders of their elders, and they wanted to do something about it. They were alert, idealistic, eager. He had great confidence in the young. Let them, then, give Sam a hearing, take an interest in him, befriend him as they should.

Anyway, the double announcement of the new Group Leader, Donald Kent, and the unknown speaker had drawn quite a crowd.

His glance strayed over them as they stood about chatting in groups. He was glad to see some of Anne's friends here tonight, Midge Parker and her brother. The oldest Twing boy, home from a government assignment in Alaska. Ellen Fitzgibbon, married now to Bruce Mason and both of them here from Long Island for a weekend with her parents. Anne had been hard put to it to find familiar contemporaries after her return from college. They all seemed to have scattered to the four winds, some to jobs, some to other cities following their weddings. It made it much pleasanter for her to have at least a few of her old high school crowd with her. Joe Melick wasn't enough. Or was he?

Well, this was no time to pursue that thought. He stood up, dismissing Anne from his mind, and began to thread his way forward.

Donald, seeing him, came to meet him. "Should we begin?" Barth nodded. "I would say so. It's after eight. And we want time for our light refreshments afterward, you know. Where is Sam?"

"In the study with Anne. I'll get him."

Barth nodded again. "And I'll try to persuade these last stragglers to be seated. Oh! There's Gus I see. Gus Jenkins. I'm glad he came over. It will make Sam feel more at ease." He went forward to speak to the Negro boy who stood hesitantly just inside the door.

Donald moved with his long, slightly limping stride through the kitchen door into a back hall and so to the study. Sam was there, all right, with Anne and her mother. He heard her ask, "Are you scared, Sam?" and came into the room in time to hear Sam's rejoinder.

"Well, ma'am, I'm not much on talking. And I sure don't look forward to facing a roomful of strange people knowing I got to be the one to keep 'em entertained for a half hour or so. But the Army's made me do so many things I haven't liked that I reckon I'll get through this, all right."

He paused, and a slow half-smile spread over his round face. "Least

it's no worse than a heap of other things I've tackled."

"Good for you, Sam," Donald stood before him. "Gus just came. And your mother's here. So now I guess we're all ready. Have you your notes?"

Sam patted his pocket. "Yes, sir. I hardly think I'll need 'em, though. Most of 'em are in my head."

"Good," Donald said again. He did not look at Anne. He had not seen her to speak to since that Sunday morning two weeks ago. He supposed what she had said then was true. She hated him. But he felt that his impulsiveness had brought a small measure of victory, anyway, for she had appeared at church with her mother both last Sunday and this.

He stood aside as Mrs. Atwood rose, and she passed through the door first. Sam followed, as Anne pulled out her compact and, waving him on, paused to powder her nose before the mirror above the fireplace mantel. He was about to follow Sam when her soft voice speaking his name stopped him.

He turned.

She said, busily powdering. "Aren't you being rather silly?"

"Silly! His answer was short and angry. "Why?"

She snapped the compact shut and faced him. "Oh, not speaking to me. Not looking at me." Her tone was light, her dark eyes bright with an odd light. "We can't go on like this, you know. Not and be neighbors."

And she gave him the warmth of her smile. He stood before her in a turbulence of emotion. All thought fled, and he heard himself stammering.

"I—I guess I owe you an apology." "For what?" Casually. And then, seeming to remember, "Oh! That! Now you are silly. I'd forgotten all about it." She smiled again and came toward him and linked her arm through his. "I think we'd better go, don't you? We don't want to hold things up."

"No. Of course." He didn't know what he was saying. He could hardly believe this sudden bewilderment. Together they moved into the dark back hall. He could catch the faint delicate perfume of her powder. He could hear the quick flurry of her breathing, and the pressure of her arm on his arm was intimate and sweet. He wanted to stay here in this dim passageway and talk to her. And talk. And talk. But through the open door into the kitchen Dr. Atwood was already addressing the young people, and he knew he must join him. Besides—he remembered just in time—

—he was not one to come at a whistle and go at a command. "Well," he said, a trifle stiffly as though they had been on a long journey, "here we are."

But she had already disengaged herself and drifted ahead of him. The next moment he was standing beside the Parson.

Lazy Thyroid May Cause Pains

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

IF YOU have been suffering from severe headaches, together with pains in the face and neck, your trouble may be due to a lazy thyroid gland, and you had better see your doctor instead of just taking self-prescribed headache tablets.

Incidentally, this combination of pains is a frequent one. Many patients describe the symptoms as an intense or dull ache, or a throbbing pain just in front of the ear, up into the head and down the back of the neck.

Sometimes these people also have a feeling of pressure over the chest, and even severe chest pains. Usually, the pain occurs when the person is overtired, and may last from an hour to 24 hours.

According to recent thought, an underactive thyroid gland may be at the bottom of this disorder. This is known medically as a hypothyroid condition, and comes from a deficiency of thyroid hormone in the blood. Lack of thyroid hormone prevents the body cells from getting enough oxygen and nutrition, and thus causes the pain. This explanation is only one of many that have been offered regarding this type of disorder.

Tests were recently made with 29 persons who had the pains in the face, neck and head as described above, and who also had a hypothyroid condition. Taking thyroid by mouth brought great improvement in all of these patients, usually after two weeks of treatment.

Adequate Tests

It is important to remember, however, that this type of treatment should not be undertaken unless a physician has first made a careful physical examination, together with adequate tests to find out if a thyroid deficiency really exists. This is best determined by making a metabolism test after the patient has been at rest at least eight hours. A blood test to determine the amount of cholesterol in the blood stream can also give a clue. If a genuine thyroid deficiency is present, the physician can then prescribe the exact dose of thyroid extract needed by the individual patient.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

O. C.: I have had a case of shingles which has persisted for the past six months. The pain has continued severely since that time. What would you advise?

Answer: Sometimes the giving of X-ray treatments is helpful in this condition. If X-ray does not help, the sectioning of certain nerves causing the pain may be done by a neurosurgeon.

Texan Rises To Defense Of State

Editor's Note: Yesterday, Hal Boyle's column was written by Ed Creagh and he used the well-known familiar Christmas motif of "Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus" to say: "No, Virginia, there ain't no Texas." The following article is an answer to Creagh, written by a Texan.

By CLAYTON HICKERSON
IN TEXAS—Never let it be said a Texan didn't rise and wave the Lone Star flag when his heart swells up with pride in his homeland.

And when some foreign columnist, Ed Creagh, in Washington tells a bewildered Virginia there is no Texas. . . well.

Dear Virginia:
Of course, honey, there's a place called Texas. A great, big wonderful place where the sun shines brightest when it shines and where the snow lies deepest, when it falls.

Texas is the land of manana, that great big place of the rock-candy mountains and gingerbread trees where every damyankee wants to go tomorrow.

Texas is the place where they manufacture culture if they don't already have it, where the symphony may come to a cropper when a hill-billy fiddler makes his G-string talk. It's the place where the old cow-hand may use a V-8 instead of a cayuse, baby, but he's still as fast on the draw as Tom Mix ever was.

In fact, Tom Mix was a Texan, Virginia. He was just one of the thousands who got in early on the business Hollywood calls hers. . . the business that Texans like Howard Hughes and Glenn McCarthy support now.

And don't let any damyankee tell you Texas is just a state of mind, Virginia. The skeptic may as well tell you there is no Santa Claus. There'll always be a Santa Claus in Texas, honey, come hell or the end of the oilman's depletion allowance.

Texas is no gag, either, child. Texas is as real as a bawling steer running up the ramp of a cattle car on the railroad which Texas money keeps running. It's as real as umpteen billion cubic feet of natural gas that keep industry running in those bleak areas called New England and the Atlantic Seaboard. . . that keep little girls warm on frosty nights.

And Davy Crockett a Tennessee? That's funny to us Texans, Virginia. Davy Crockett and Sam Rayburn, too, were Tennesseans. . . before they came to Texas, but who ever heard of a bowie knife in Nashville or an Alamo in Memphis? Whoever heard of such a thing?

Roosevelt's entourage are not given house room by Harry Truman. Many of them are willing to be either Republicans or Democrats.

The anxiety of the Eisenhower group develops the suspicion that those who support his candidacy are more frightened at failure than he is. This is especially true of the Wall street group, who are, for some reason not quite clear, more opposed to Robert A. Taft than to Harry Truman. They have made a fetish of Eisenhower, but they do him the injustice of forcing his hand.

The events over the past weekend were so unusual as to bring confusion into an already confused political party.

It all started when Harold Stassen flew to France, spent a couple of hours with Eisenhower, flew back to the United States and declared himself to be a candidate for the Presidency. As it is beyond probability that Harold Stassen could be nominated, practical politicians argued about the situation in this fashion:

1. Stassen is a stalking horse for Eisenhower;
2. Stassen believes that Eisenhower will not run and is placing himself in a bargaining position within the Republican party;
3. Stassen is building a position so that he can throw whatever delegates he gets to Eisenhower, while he accepts the Vice Presidency.

Sen. Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr. and Harold Stassen are also reputed to be hopeful that should General Eisenhower become President, the Secretaryship of State would be a desirable sign of gratitude.

Senator Lodge thereupon projected himself into the picture to offset Stassen by announcing the Eisenhower candidacy and giving the impression that he is authorized to speak. From Paris came some, but politically inadequate, confirmation.

Eisenhower's statement from Paris was awkward, inept, and for the politician altogether confusing. He still is not a pre-

CHAPTER NINETEEN

BARTH drifted away from the back door, where he had been greeting everyone, and found an old armchair that had been pushed into a dark corner of the big kitchen of the Manse. He would leave things to Kent now. Let him take over. It was good to know that he could.

Donald was going to be popular, his thoughts went on. Already at school the boys and girls were speaking of him enthusiastically. "He's different from the rest of the teachers," they said. "He's interesting. He'll talk about other things besides the lesson. He'll talk about anything. But somehow when he gets through he's got it all tied up with what he's given you to study."

He had made no mistake, Barth told himself, asking Donald to lead the Youth Group.

His eyes strayed about the old kitchen. The folding chairs that had been brought over from the Sunday School were half filled. By the time the meeting opened, there wouldn't be a vacant seat. Discretion had been the better part of valor, after all, he told himself. At first, hearing Constance's account of the Sewing Circle affair, he had known an impatient indignation. They — he and Constance — were certainly not trying to be a law unto themselves, he had exclaimed. There was a higher law. And no one was going to tell him now he was to live up to that. Sam would speak, as he had been invited to speak. And he, Barth, would make the announcement to that effect from his pulpit regardless of all this tempest in a teapot. Because that's what it was and nothing more. The Peebles weren't happy unless they were stirring one up.

But quieter thought had told him that, though a counter act to the Tuesday squabble was needed, it should not be one of defiance. Defiance only lost sight of his lifelong objective. What he wanted, now as always, was to spread the gospel as far and wide as possible into the Brotherhood of Man and the Fatherhood of God. He wanted his church, where he was the ordained leader, to be an example of this, to be a small candle in a world of darkness. However, attitudes had to grow naturally in unaccustomed directions. They could not be forced. His own rule had always been: a liberal view but moderate action; and his motto: evolution, not revolution. He must bear that in mind.

Therefore, instead of announcing the speaker as Captain Sam Mapes, by which he would have been immediately identified and a storm raised again, he had said only that the guest speaker would be a young veteran unknown to Crestwood whose experiences and travels would, he felt sure, interest all the young people. He hoped many would be present, and any of their friends outside of the church whom the members of the group cared to invite would be welcome.

The young were broader-minded than the old, he had said to himself. They had fewer prejudices. He knew from his own dealings with them that they were beginning to feel that the peace of the world rested on their shoulders as much as on the shoulders of their elders, and they wanted to do something about it. They were alert, idealistic, eager. He had great confidence in the young. Let them, then, give Sam a hearing, take an interest in him, befriend him as they should.

Anyway, the double announcement of the new Group Leader, Donald Kent, and the unknown speaker had drawn quite a crowd.

His glance strayed over them as they stood about chatting in groups. He was glad to see some of Anne's friends here tonight. Midge Parker and her brother. The oldest Tving boy, home from a government assignment in Alaska. Ellen Fitzhugh, married now to Bruce Mason and both of them here from Long Island for a week-end with her parents. Anne had been hard put to it to find familiar contemporaries after her return from college. They all seemed to have scattered to the four winds, some to jobs, some to other cities following their weddings. It made it much pleasanter for her to have at least a few of her old high school crowd with her. Joe Melick wasn't enough. Or was he?

Well, this was no time to pursue that thought. He stood up, dismissing Anne from his mind, and began to thread his way forward.

Donald, seeing him, came to meet him. "Should we begin?" Barth nodded. "I would say so. It's after eight. And we want time for our light refreshments afterward, you know. Where is Sam?"

"In the study with Anne. I'll get him."

Barth nodded again. "And I'll try to persuade these last stragglers to be seated. Oh! There's Gus I see. Gus Jenkins. I'm glad he came over at ease." He went forward to speak to the Negro boy who stood hesitantly just inside the door.

Donald moved with his long, slightly limping stride through the kitchen door into a back hall and so to the study. Sam was there, all right, with Anne and her mother. He heard her ask, "Are you scared, Sam?" and came into the room in time to hear Sam's rejoinder.

"Well, ma'am, I'm not much on talking. And I sure don't look forward to facing a roomful of strange people knowing I got to be the one to keep 'em entertained for a half hour or so. But the Army's made me do so many things I haven't liked that I reckon I'll get through this, all right." He paused, and a slow half-smile spread over his round face. "Least it's no worse than a heap of other things I've tackled."

"Good for you, Sam," Donald stood before him. "Gus just came. And your mother's here. So now I guess we're all ready. Have you your notes?"

Sam patted his pocket. "Yes, sir. I hardly think I'll need 'em, though. Most of 'em are in my head."

"Good," Donald said again. He did not look at Anne. He had not seen her to speak to since that Sunday morning two weeks ago. He supposed that she had said then was true. She hated him. But he felt that his impulsiveness had brought a small measure of victory, anyway, for she had appeared at church with her mother both last Sunday and this.

He stood aside as Mrs. Atwood rose, and she passed through the door first. Sam followed, as Anne pulled out her compact and, waving him on, paused to powder her nose before the mirror above the fireplace mantel. He was about to follow Sam when her soft voice speaking his name stopped him.

He turned. She said, busily powdering. "Aren't you being rather silly?"

"Silly! His answer was short and angry. "Why?"

She snapped the compact shut and faced him. "Oh, not speaking to me. Not looking at me." Her tone was light, her dark eyes bright with an odd light. "We can't go on like this, you know. Not and be neighbors." And she gave him the warmth of her smile.

He stood before her in a turbulence of emotion. All thought fled, and he heard himself stammering. "I—I guess I owe you an apology." "For what?" Casually. And then, seeming to remember. "Oh! That! Now you are silly. I'd forgotten all about it." She smiled again and came toward him and linked her arm through his. "I think we'd better go, don't you? We don't want to hold things up."

"No. Of course." He didn't know what he was saying. He could hardly believe this sudden bewildering friendliness. Together they moved into the dark back hall. He could catch the faint delicate perfume of her powder. He could hear the quick flurry of her breathing, and the pressure of her arm on his arm was intimate and sweet. He wanted to stay here in this dim passageway and talk to her. And talk. And talk. But through the open door into the kitchen Dr. Atwood was already addressing the young people, and he knew he must join him. Besides—he remembered just in time —he was not one to come at a whistle and go at a command.

"Well," he said, a trifle stiffly as though they had been on a long journey, "here we are." But she had already disengaged herself and drifted ahead of him. The next moment he was standing beside the Parson.

Lazy Thyroid May Cause Pains

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

IF YOU have been suffering from severe headaches, together with pains in the face and neck, your trouble may be due to a lazy thyroid gland, and you had better see your doctor instead of just taking self-prescribed headache tablets.

Incidentally, this combination of pains is a frequent one. Many patients describe the symptoms as an intense or dull ache, or a throbbing pain just in front of the ear, up into the head and down the back of the neck.

Sometimes these people also have a feeling of pressure over the chest, and even severe chest pains. Usually, the pain occurs when the person is overtired, and may last from an hour to 24 hours.

According to recent thought, an underactive thyroid gland may be at the bottom of this disorder. This is known medically as a hypothyroid condition, and comes from a deficiency of thyroid hormone in the blood. Lack of thyroid hormone prevents the body cells from getting enough oxygen and nutrition, and thus causes the pain. This explanation is only one of many that have been offered regarding this type of disorder.

Tests were recently made with 29 persons who had the pains in the face, neck and head as described above, and who also had a hypothyroid condition. Taking thyroid by mouth brought great improvement in all of these patients, usually after two weeks of treatment.

Adequate Tests

It is important to remember, however, that this type of treatment should not be undertaken unless a physician has first made a careful physical examination, together with adequate tests to find out if a thyroid deficiency really exists. This is best determined by making a metabolism test after the patient has been at rest at least eight hours. A blood test to determine the amount of cholesterol in the blood stream can also give a clue.

If a genuine thyroid deficiency is present, the physician can then prescribe the exact dose of thyroid extract needed by the individual patient.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

O. C.: I have had a case of shingles which has persisted for the past six months. The pain has continued severely since that time. What would you advise?

Answer: Sometimes the giving of X-ray treatments is helpful in this condition. If X-ray does not help, the sectioning of certain nerves causing the pain may be done by a neurosurgeon.

Try, Stop Me

In a recent automobile drive through the magnificent redwood groves in California, I ran through every known brand of weather. Snow, hail, blinding rain and intermittent patches of brilliant sunshine. I was reminded of Ed Wynn's classic story of the motorist who not only had to plough through a deluge, but was further handicapped by a nagging wife who told him how badly he was doing.

Then her incessant chatter ceased abruptly, and she sat in silence, her head wagging rapidly from side to side. The husband was too grateful to investigate for a full 20 minutes. Then he discovered the cause of the miracle: his wife's nose was caught in the windshield wiper! (That's one of those stories, of course, that must not be analyzed too carefully.) Everybody knows that the windshield wipers are on the OUTSIDE of the car. What price logic—if a story achieves its purpose and gives you a laugh?

Texan Rises To Defense Of State

Editor's Note: Yesterday, Hal Boyle's column was written by Ed Creagh and he used the well-known familiar Christmas motif of "Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus" to say: "No, Virginia, there ain't no Texas." The following article is an answer to Creagh, written by a Texan.

By CLAYTON HICKERSON
IN TEXAS—P—Never let it be said a Texan didn't rise and wave the Lone Star flag when his heart swells up with pride in his homeland.

And when some foreign columnist, Ed Creagh, in Washington tells a bewildered Virginia there is no Texas. . . well.

Dear Virginia:
Of course, honey, there's a place called Texas. A great, big wonderful place where the sun shines brightest when it shines and where the snow lies deepest, when it falls.

Texas is the land of manana, that great big place of the rock-candy mountains and gingerbread trees where every dandyman wants to go tomorrow.

Texas is the place where they manufacture culture if they don't already have it, where the symphony may come to a cropper when a hill-billy fiddler makes his G-string talk. It's the place where the old cow-hand may use a V-8 instead of a cayuse, baby, but he's still as fast on the draw as Tom Mix ever was.

In fact, Tom Mix was a Texan, Virginia. He was just one of the thousands who got in early on the business Hollywood calls hers. . . the business that Texans like Howard Hughes and Glenn McCarthy support now.

And don't let any dandyman tell you Texas is just a state of mind, Virginia. The skeptic may as well tell you and me there is no Santa Claus. There'll always be a Santa Claus in Texas, honey, come hell or the end of the oilman's depletion allowance.

Texas is no gal, either. Child, Texas is as real as a bowling steer running up the ramp of a cattle car on the railroad which Texas money keeps running. It's as real as umpteen billion cubic feet of natural gas that keep industry running in those bleak areas called New England and the Atlantic Seaboard. . . that keep little girls warm on frosty nights.

And Davy Crockett a Tennessee? That's funny to us Texans, Virginia. Davy Crockett and Sam Rayburn, too, were Tennesseans. . . before they came to Texas, but who ever heard of a Bowie

The Call of the Fishermen

THEY LEFT THEIR NETS AND FOLLOWED THE LORD

Scripture—Matthew 4:18-25; Mark 1:16-20; Luke 5:1-11.

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL
IN TODAY'S LESSON we learn of Jesus choosing the first four men who were to be trained to carry on His work when He should be called away. They were to live with Him in close communion, to share His triumphs and His trials, and to see Him risen from the dead.

These men were called by the Master to quit their livelihood and follow Him, asking no questions, making no agreement as to what they were to receive as remuneration, or what chances of advancement there were to be.

Jesus knew men; He could see at a glance the type of men He wanted for His work. And what a personality must Jesus have seemed to them, that they left the life they had known and all their possessions, and went unquestioningly with Him.

Walking by the Sea of Galilee,

Mark tells us approximately the same story.

Turning to the gospel of Luke, we read of the great multitudes pressing upon Him to hear the word of God. Jesus was standing on the shore of the Lake of Genesaret, and two boats were standing by the lake but the fishermen were gone out of them and were busy washing their nets.

"And He entered into one of the ships, which was Simon's, and prayed him that he would thrust out a little from the land. And He sat down and taught the people out of the ship."

Now Andrew, Peter or Simon, James and John were partners in the fishing business. They were evidently good workmen and made comfortable livings. All night they had toiled at their nets, with no results. They must have been very weary and discouraged.

MEMORY VERSE

"Jesus said unto them, Come ye after Me, and I will make you fishers of men."—Mark 1:17.

Jesus saw two brothers, Simon called Peter and Andrew, casting their nets into the sea; "for they were fishermen." "And He saith to them, follow Me, and I will make you fishers of men. And they straightway left their nets and followed Him."

Going further, Jesus saw two other brethren, James the son of Zebedee and his brother, John, with their father mending their nets. He called them, and they too left their work and their father without question and followed Him. These events occurred a year after the first calling after Jesus' baptism by John the Baptist.

Of these four whom Jesus first called, three—Peter, James and John—were the most prominent. They were closer to the Master than was Andrew, but Andrew never showed any jealousy or animosity, but went quietly on his way doing the work assigned him.

With these four men, Jesus went about Galilee preaching and teaching and healing all manner of ailments. "And His fame went throughout all Syria . . . and there followed Him great multitudes of people," from all the country round.

When Jesus finished speaking, He said to Simon Peter, "Launch out into the deep, and let down your nets for a draught."

Peter explained that they had fished all night long and caught nothing, but that he would do as the Lord told him.

"And when they had this done, they inclosed a great multitude of fishes; and their net brake."

"And they beckoned unto their partners, which were in the other ship, that they should come and help them. And they came, and filled both the ships, so that they began to sink."

Peter was so overcome at this miracle, that he fell down at Jesus' knees, saying, "Depart from me; for I am a sinful man, O Lord!"

Astonished also were his partners, James and John. And Jesus said unto Simon, "Fear not; from henceforth thou shalt catch men. And when they had brought their ships to land, they forsook all, and followed Him."

Thus Jesus called the first of the Twelve who were to live in close association with Him through His earthly life, see Him after the resurrection, and carry on His work until martyrdom ended their ministrations.

PLEASURE-PACKED PROGRAM

PLANNED FOR FARM FAMILIES

To Be Guests of Richards Implement Local John Deere Implement Dealer on John Deere Day, Jan. 19th

No less than six brand-new movies are on the program for the annual John Deere Day show to be held for farmers and their families on Jan. 19 at the Richards Implement, according to Elmon E. Richards, local John Deere dealer and sponsor of the affair. Farmers who have not yet received their tickets, reminds Mr. Richards, may obtain them by calling for them at the Implement Store at 520 E. Main St.

The feature picture, "Galahad Jones," features Richard Crane, Marjorie Lord, Elizabeth Patterson, Jonathan Hale, Ed Brophy, and four other Hollywood personalities. The story centers around a farmer's son, recently graduated from law school, who thwarts the efforts of a big-time crook to profit from his political connections. It is a present-day problem picture with a moral and plenty of laughs.

Leading the pack of five more applause-winning films is "The Big Payoff," featuring Tom Gordon who, along with his typical American family, has won so many friends in previous John Deere pictures. The four films that complete the parade of entertainment offer something new and different in dealing with subjects close to the hearts of today's farmers. "Those who attend this year's John Deere Day," says Mr. Richards, "have a real treat in store for them, a day so packed with entertainment for the entire family that they will remember it with pleasure for months to come. Don't miss it! Get your tickets on your very next trip to town!" —adv.

Mark tells us approximately the same story.

Turning to the gospel of Luke, we read of the great multitudes pressing upon Him to hear the word of God. Jesus was standing on the shore of the Lake of Gennesaret, and two boats were standing by the lake but the fishermen were gone out of them and were busy washing their nets.

"And He entered into one of the ships, which was Simon's, and prayed him that he would thrust out a little from the land. And He sat down and taught the people out of the ship."

Now Andrew, Peter or Simon, James and John were partners in the fishing business. They were evidently good workmen and made comfortable livings. "All night they had toiled at their nets, with no results. They must have been very weary and discouraged."

MEMORY VERSE

"Jesus said unto them, 'Come ye after Me, and I will make you fishers of men.'—Mark 1:17.

Jesus saw two brothers, Simon called Peter and Andrew, casting their nets into the sea; "for they were fishers." "And He saith to them, follow Me, and I will make you fishers of men. And they straightway left their nets and followed Him."

Going further, Jesus saw two other brethren, James the son of Zebedee and his brother, John, with their father mending their nets. He called them, and they too left their work and their father without question and followed Him. These events occurred a year after the first calling after Jesus' baptism by John the Baptist.

Of these four whom Jesus first called, three—Peter, James and John—were the most prominent. They were closer to the Master than was Andrew, but Andrew never showed any jealousy or animosity, but went quietly on his way doing the work assigned him.

With these four men, Jesus went about Galilee preaching and teaching and healing all manner of ailments, "And His fame went throughout all Syria . . . and there followed Him great multitudes of people," from all the country round.

When Jesus finished speaking, He said to Simon Peter, "Launch out into the deep, and let down your nets for a draught."

Peter explained that they had fished all night long and caught nothing, but that he would do as the Lord told him.

"And when they had this done, they inclosed a great multitude of fishes; and their net brake."

"And they beckoned unto their partners, which were in the other ship, that they should come and help them. And they came, and filled both the ships, so that they began to sink."

Peter was so overcome at this miracle, that he fell down at Jesus' knees, saying, "Depart from me; for I am a sinful man, O Lord!"

Astonished also were his partners, James and John. And Jesus said unto Simon, "Fear not; from henceforth thou shalt catch men."

"And when they had brought their ships to land, they forsook all, and followed Him."

Thus Jesus called the first of the Twelve who were to live in close association with Him through His earthly life, see Him after the resurrection, and carry on His work until martyrdom ended their ministrations.

PLEASURE-PACKED PROGRAM

To Be Guests of Richards Implement Local John Deere Implement Dealer on John Deere Day, Jan. 19th

No less than six brand-new movies are on the program for the annual John Deere Day show to be held for farmers and their families on Jan. 19 at the Richards Implement, according to Elmon E. Richards, local John Deere dealer and sponsor of the affair. Farmers who have not yet received their tickets, reminds Mr. Richards, may obtain them by calling for them at the Implement Store at 520 E. Main St. The feature picture, "Galahad Jones," features Richard Crane, Marjorie Lord, Elizabeth Patterson, Jonathan Hale, Ed Brophy, and four other Hollywood personalities. The story centers around a farmer's son, recently graduated from law school, who thwarts the efforts of a big-time crook to profit from his political connections. It is a present-day problem picture with a moral and plenty of laughs. Leading the pack of five more applause-winning films is "The Big Payoff," featuring Tom Gordon who, along with his typical American family, has won so many friends in previous John Deere pictures. The four films that complete the parade of entertainment offer something new and different in dealing with subjects close to the hearts of today's farmers. "Those who attend this year's John Deere Day," says Mr. Richards, "have a real treat in store for them, a day so packed with entertainment for the entire family that they will remember it with pleasure for months to come. Don't miss it! Get your tickets on your very next trip to town!" —adv.

Americans Know Pinch Is In Offing

Things To Be Rough Before They Get Easier, Is Belief

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—Americans have been given the lowdown on what the government means when it says they are going to be "pinched."

And the pinch for civilians after the military gets the metal it needs is going to be a lot sharper than many expect. It's going to be rough on a lot of production chiefs who will be trying to keep factories running and men employed.

But maybe it'll be a boon to a lot of sales executives who are trying to move inventories of goods already on hand.

Makers—and buyers—of autos and household gadgets have been told how much can be produced in April, May and June. And the word is "less than now."

But for the makers of such accessories to living as umbrellas, pianos and venetian blinds the word is "you can have more metal than now, so you won't go out of business."

THE GOVERNMENT is giving up trying, apparently, to decide which is more essential, a dishwasher or a cigarette lighter. Formerly it called the lighter less essential than kitchen appliances, and allowed less metal to lighter makers.

Builders—and would-be owners—of new homes get a shock. Fewer can be started after April than was first expected. The trouble here isn't in lumber, cement, plumbing fixtures, or workmen. There's no scarcity yet in any of these. But the brass, copper and aluminum items—small but essential parts of any new home—aren't going to be handed out freely.

Unless your contractor is a good hunter, he may have trouble finishing some homes later on this year.

Businessmen get this advice from the government: If you haven't started that new plant or expansion program by April 1, you're going to have a tough time proving it's essential enough for the government to let you have building materials. Business expansion is going to slow down after April—except defense plants.

The pinch, then, that they've been talking about so long really starts April 1. And government men say it may get rougher before it gets easier.

Some businessmen question this. They contend the military may not need or be able to use all that metal so soon. And they think industry's expanding capacity can soon take care of real military needs and still furnish more materials for civilian production than the government says it will allot.

Confederate Caps Is Craze In Logan

LOGAN, Jan. 11.—It's a good thing none of Hocking County's Civil War Union veterans lived to see the latest fad among Logan's youngsters.

Confederate army caps are today's most popular headgear among the small fry, and there are signs the craze is spreading.

OPS Exempts Honey From Price Control

Honey, not the sweet talk but the sweet taste kind, has been exempted from price control by the Office of Price Stabilization.

This exemption of honey, which is processed and sold by commercial packers, is effective Jan. 12.

Clyde M. McBee, director of the Columbus district Office of Price Stabilization explained that, since honey is currently selling below parity and is likely to continue to do so, producer-packers are already in effect exempt from price control.

UNDER THESE circumstances, McBee said enforcement of price controls on commercial packers, who handle only 30 per cent of the supply, would involve substantial administrative difficulties out of proportion to the importance of keeping packer sales under control.

In view of the nature of the exemption, McBee pointed out that there is no reason to believe it will have any material effect on the general level of honey prices.

New Wing Slated For Lockbourne

Col. Joseph J. Preston, commander of the 91st, said the two wings would form an air division, commanded by a major general.

1950 FIGURES REVEALED Ohio's Farm Production Worth Over One Billion

COLUMBUS, Jan. 11.—Striking facts about Ohio's farming business during 1950 are revealed by the Ohio Development and Publicity Commission following analysis of county farm statistics recently released by the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station.

In 1950, as usual, about a billion dollars went to Ohio farmers for farm crops sold. Total sales of farm products amounted to $903,412,000. In addition government payments of $7,435,600 were made. Allowing 20 per cent for products used on the farm makes the year's produce worth over a billion.

The statistics are the latest in an annual series of reports issued since 1929. The figures covering 1950 farm production were compiled by E. R. Westcott and J. I. Falconer, department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology, Ohio State University and Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station.

Dairying, including sale of veal calves, was the biggest paying enterprise, amounting to over 240 million dollars, or 26.56 per cent of Ohio farm income. Dairy was the Greenhouse and nursery products came next, with $30,722,000, amounting to 3.40 per cent, followed by truck crops worth $16,806,000, or 1.86 per cent. Ohio sheep brought 1.67 per cent of the total farm income $15,084,000; fruit 1.47 per cent, $13,290,000; tobacco 1.15 per cent, $10,358,000.

Darke, Wayne and Wood Counties usually vie for top rank in farm sales. In 1950 they finished in that order.

Americans Know Pinch Is In Offing

Things To Be Rough Before They Get Easier, Is Belief

NEW YORK, Jan. 11.—(P)—Americans have been given the lowdown on what the government means when it says they are going to be "pinched."

And the pinch for civilians after the military gets the metal it needs is going to be a lot sharper than many expect. It's going to be rough on a lot of production chiefs who will be trying to keep factories running and men employed.

But maybe it'll be a boon to a lot of sales executives who are trying to move inventories of goods already on hand.

Makers—and buyers—of autos and household gadgets have been told how much can be produced in April, May and June. And the word is "less than now."

But for the makers of such accessories to living as umbrellas, pianos and venetian blinds the word is "you can have more metal than now, so you won't go out of business."

THE GOVERNMENT is giving up trying, apparently, to decide which is more essential, a dishwasher or a cigarette lighter. Formerly it called the lighter less essential than kitchen appliances, and allowed less metal to lighter makers.

Builders—and would-be owners—of new homes get a shock. Fewer can be started after April than was first expected. The trouble here isn't in lumber, cement, plumbing fixtures, or workmen. There's no scarcity yet in any of these. But the brass, copper and aluminum items—small but essential parts of any new home—aren't going to be handed out freely.

Unless your contractor is a good hunter, he may have trouble finishing some homes later on this year.

Businessmen get this advice from the government: If you haven't started that new plant or expansion program by April 1, you're going to have a tough time proving it's essential enough for the government to let you have building materials. Business expansion is going to slow down after April—except defense plants.

One pinch, then, that they've been talking about so long really starts April 1. And government men say it may get rougher before it gets easier.

Some businessmen question this. They contend the military may not need or be able to use all that metal so soon. And they think industry's expanding capacity can soon take care of real military needs and still furnish more materials for civilian production than the government says it will allot.

Confederate Caps Is Craze In Logan

LOGAN, Jan. 11.—(P)—It's a good thing none of Hocking County's Civil War Union veterans lived to see the latest fad among Logan's youngsters.

Confederate army caps are today's most popular headgear among the small fry, and there are signs the craze is spreading.

The Logan Daily News reported wryly, however, that "there is no foundation to the rumor that Confederate money may also become popular again, even though the value of the Union dollar has dropped steadily for several years."

Skinny Refuses To Put OK On Ike

CLEVELAND, Jan. 11.—(P)—Gen. Jonathan (Skinny) Wainwright refuses to endorse Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower for President.

The hero of Bataan, here for the dedication of a new organized reserve corps center, said he did not "think anyone can get the nomination if he doesn't go out and work for it."

Then he added that Eisenhower's "fine personality and fine administrative ability" were not enough. "It takes more than that to be a good President, I doubt if he has political ability."

Highway Crash Kills 5 Persons

RAVENNA, Jan. 11.—(P)—An auto-truck crash east of here killed five persons Thursday on their way to work at Ravenna Arsenal.

They were Charles Stewart, 51; John Monson, 21; Esther Caples, 27; Eli Davis, 32; and Mrs. Madeleine Dillard, 34. All lived in the same settlement north of here.

School Wages Up

WILMINGTON, Jan. 11.—(P)—Salary increases of at least $100 annually have been voted for all teachers in Wilmington schools by the board of education. Boosts also were voted for janitors, high school principal and the superintendent.

OPS Exempts Honey From Price Control

Honey, not the sweet talk but the sweet taste kind, has been exempted from price control by the Office of Price Stabilization.

This exemption of honey, which is processed and sold by commercial packers, is effective Jan. 12.

Clyde M. McBee, director of the Columbus district Office of Price Stabilization explained that, since honey is currently selling below parity and is likely to continue to do so, producer-packers are already in effect exempt from price control.

UNDER THESE circumstances, McBee said enforcement of price controls on commercial packers, who handle only 30 per cent of the supply, would involve substantial administrative difficulties out of proportion to the importance of keeping packer sales under control.

In view of the nature of the exemption, McBee pointed out that there is no reason to believe it will have any material effect on the general level of honey prices.

New Wing Slated For Lockbourne

COLUMBUS, Jan. 11.—(P)—The number of planes and personnel at Lockbourne Air Force Base will be doubled early next summer.

A $17 million building program has been launched to house about 4,000 more airmen. A new reconnaissance wing of B-29s will be based at Lockbourne, in addition to the 91st Strategic Reconnaissance Wing of B-45 jet bombers, already based there.

Col. Joseph J. Preston, commander of the 91st, said the two wings would form an air division, commanded by a major general.

TAKE A LOT OUT OF YOUR SOIL

Bigger yields from improved crop varieties and hybrids take more plant food out of your soil. As organic matter disappears, soil gets harder to plow, erodes more, soaks up less rain. Prompt manure spreading puts back most of the plant food that feed crops take out, prevents loss through fermenting and leaching. The organic matter in manure makes soil easier to work, helps prevent erosion, and lets your fields soak up more rain for future use.

1950 FIGURES REVEALED

Ohio's Farm Production Worth Over One Billion

COLUMBUS, Jan. 11.—Striking facts about Ohio's farming business during 1950 are revealed by the Ohio Development and Publicity Commission following analysis of county farm statistics recently released by the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station.

In 1950, as usual, about a billion dollars went to Ohio farmers for farm crops sold. Total sales of farm products amounted to $903,412,000. In addition government payments of $7,435,600 were made. Allowing 20 per cent for products used on the farm makes the year's produce worth over a billion.

The statistics are the latest in an annual series of reports issued since 1929. The figures covering 1950 farm production were compiled by E. R. Westcott and J. I. Falconer, department of Agricultural Economics and Rural Sociology, Ohio State University and Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station.

Dairying, including sale of veal calves, was the biggest paying enterprise, amounting to over 240 million dollars, or 26.56 per cent of Ohio farm income. Dairy was the largest source of income in 54 counties, and second in 26.

POULTRY ISN'T pin money to Ohio farmers. It is third source of farm income, or 11.63 per cent of the total. One county, Henry, sold nearly 15 million dollars worth of poultry products, first source of farm income in the county, 18 per cent of all farm products sold. Poultry was second source of income in 22 counties an dthird in 33.

Wheat, with $72,177,000, or 7.99 per cent, and beef cattle, with $65,993,000, or 7.30 per cent of the total, were fourth and fifth respectively in sales by Ohio farmers. Corn, $51,498,000, or 5.70 per cent, was sixth. Popcorn brought an additional $787,000. Soybeans, seventh, brought in $48,471,000, or 5.37 per cent of the total.

Greenhouse and nursery products came next, with $30,722,000, amounting to 3.40 per cent, followed by truck crops worth $16,806,000, or 1.86 per cent. Ohio sheep brought 1.67 per cent of the total farm income $15,084,000; fruit 1.47 per cent, $13,290,000; tobacco 1.15 per cent, $10,358,000. Other crops included hay, 0.99 per cent, $8,928,000; oats, 0.93 per cent, $8,374,000; potatoes 0.75 per cent, $6,753,000; forest products (including maple syrup) 0.57 per cent, $5,141,000; sugar beets 0.36 per cent, $3,212,000.

GREENHOUSE CROPS, marketed in the nearby cities, were first income producers in Lucas and Cuyahoga Counties. Nursery products were first in Lake County, with 48 per cent of the county total. Three counties got the largest part of their return to farmers from soybeans, and two from tobacco.

Darke, Wayne and Wood Counties usually vie for top rank in farm sales. In 1950 they finished in that order.

Farm sales per acre ranged from $148.81 in Cuyahoga County (greenhouse farming pays well on area covered) to a low of $10.52. The state average per acre was $41.42. The majority of below-average counties are in unglaciated southeastern Ohio.

The U.S. produces about a fourth of the world's apple crop.

Fifty Ohioans Sign For '53 Jug

Buckeye Sidewheeler Has Yet To Win Lush Pace Event

DELAWARE, Jan. 11.—(P)—Ohio harness horsemen lead all others in the number of eligibles remaining for the 1953 Little Brown Jug three-year-old pace.

Jug Secretary H. C. Thomson has announced that of the 185 two-year olds that had $100 payments made on them, 50 of them belong to Ohioans.

Members of the Buckeye harness racing fraternity have been trying for victory in the Jug since it was inaugurated in 1946.

The best showing so far by an Ohioan has been registered by candidates owned by C. M. Saunders of Toledo.

In 1949 his Stormyway finished second in the summery after having won one elimination heat. In 1947 his Goose Bay captured second money. Saunders made payments on four 1953 prospects.

O. C. Adelman of Mt. Vernon, who has had Jug money winners in Budmide and Chief Long, kept Bud-long eligible. McKinley Kirk of Washington, C. H. who has sought Jug victory with Floating Dream, Honest Truth and The Miracle, kept five paid up.

O. L. MEARS of Toledo, who came closest to victory when Marcellus was second a heat in 1947, made payments on three side-wheelers.

Little Brown Jug Chairman Joe Neville has two prospects for the '53 renewal.

Jug previews were staged in 1944 and 1945 for $10,000 each. Neville had the winner of the first one of these in Eddie Havens.

Postal Workers Set New Mail Record Here In 1951

2,020,161 Pieces Are Handled

Receipts Total
$73,728.43

Circleville postal workers handled more than two million pieces of mail here in 1951 to establish a new record mark.

A total of 2,020,161 pieces of mail were passed through the postoffice's cancelling machines last year while a total of $73,728.43 in receipts was collected.

The volume of mail passing through the cancelling machine was a new record, but at the same time that figure does not include thousands of parcel post packages handled here.

Only 1,969,007 pieces of mail were passed through the cancelling machine here in 1950, although that was a record year also. The 1951 record figure surpassed the old mark by 51,154 pieces.

AN ACCOUNT of last year's mailing here shows that 492,621 pieces of mail were handled here in the first three months of the year; 421,407 in the next three months; 428,064 during the third three months; and 678,069 in the final three months.

A record volume of Christmas mail in 1951 helped establish the new year mark.

Records show a total of 280,106 pieces of mail were handled here during the 13 peak days preceding the holiday, an increase of 7,058 over last year's record of 273,048.

At the same time, the postoffice's business increased by $6,104.72 over the 1950 business.

A TOTAL of $73,728.43 in receipts were taken in here during 1951 while only $67,623.71 was taken in during 1950.

Postal receipts are derived from sale of postage stamps and stamped papers, postage for bulk mailing, newspaper postage and rent of offices in the postoffice building.

Responsible for handling 1951's record volume of mail were Postmaster A. Hulse Hays and Assistant Leon Van Vleet; six regular clerks and two substitutes; four regular city carriers and four substitutes; one special delivery man; and four rural route carriers.

Former Roman Catholic Cleric Plans To Wed

CLEVELAND, Jan. 11.—Chesler T. Malek, who says he resigned Sept. 19 as a Roman Catholic priest "for many reasons," will marry Miss Dolores Dykas, a former member of his church, Friday.

Malek, who is 37, said he met Miss Dykas, 21, while serving as assistant priest of Transfiguration Roman Catholic Church here. He added that he was a Roman Catholic missionary for 12 years.

The marriage will take place in Sacred Heart of Jesus Polish National Catholic Church, a church not connected with Roman Catholicism and which permits its priest to marry.

The Rev. Roman Pawlikowski, who will perform the ceremony, said Malek "probably will be appointed rector of one of our parishes, either here or in our western diocese."

He said Malek disagreed with several of the Roman Catholic Church's dogmas, including its ban on marriages by priests.

"All of the Apostles, except St. John, were married," said Rev. Mr. Pawlikowski. "I would estimate that one third of our 200 priests are former Roman Catholic priests. I myself was a member of the Roman Catholic Church in Poland."
